

TEA FARMER

You own a small tea farm.

You have 100 kg tea to sell.

If you get £400 for your tea you can cover your costs, feed your family, send your children to school and cover any sudden bills such as medicine.

If you get £300 for your tea you can cover your costs, feed your family and send your children to school.

If you get £150 for your tea you can just about cover your costs.

If you do not sell your tea at all you will not be able to cover any of your costs let alone feed your family or send your children to school. This is not an option.

TEA BUYER

You are a buyer for a big supermarket.

You need 200kg tea.

You want to pay £200 in total.

This will mean that you make a healthy profit and the shareholders will be pleased.

You could probably stretch to £500 for 200 kg but the less you can pay the better.

If you can't buy from one of the tea farmers for a low price there will probably be somebody else who will sell you tea at a low price.

100kg will not be enough. You need 200kg to fulfil your order.
